

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is faint and difficult to decipher but appears to be a single line or two of writing.